International scientific conference "The fate of Soviet prisoners of war during World War II" - Lublin, 18-19 November 2011.

An international scientific conference "The fate of Soviet prisoners of war during World War II" took place on 18-19 November in Lublin.

The main part of the conference was devoted to discussion on the conditions in which prisoners were held in Nazi prisoners of war camps, and their extermination. The aim of the conference was also to show different fate of the prisoners – such as participation in auxiliary forces (e.g. „Trawniki-Männer”) or in divisions of Soviet partisans. The third objective of the conference was to present the attitudes of the "environment" to this phenomenon (e.g. attitudes of people or the Polish Underground State towards Soviet prisoners of war and members of the above-mentioned formations). In addition to the lectures there also were two panel discussions. In the first, panelists discussed the "survival strategies" of Soviet prisoners of war (escapes from the camps, joining the German auxiliary forces etc.). In the second panel the discussion concerned how the attitude towards Soviet prisoners of war changed in the case of contracting them to auxiliary forces or when they joined the Soviet or communist partisans.
