Happy New Year!

It's been another year rich in the IPN's educational projects, and one of them was really special.

With the New Year just round the corner, we're looking at the past 365 days, recollecting the wealth of projects and initiatives we carried out by ourselves and partnered in, originated and joined, funded and co-funded. These scientific, research, educational, artistic, and commemorative enterprises all served the broad purpose of teaching and promoting Polish history at home and abroad. The response they generally met with ranged from genuine approval to glowing reviews.

An example of the latter that we're particularly proud of was "The Image of Treblinka in the Eyes of Samuel Willenberg", an exhibition of sculptures depicting hell on earth, made by a man who went to that hell and returned. Since they appealed not only to art lovers but also to intrinsic human sensitivity, they struck a chord with wide audiences. Best of all, they turned out to be a perfect educational resource, which the Institute took advantage of with the help of the artist's wife, Ms. Ada Willenberg.

We want more of our projects to follow suit in 2021 – projects that will make you follow our activities and suit your expectations. Therefore-

May the year 2021 be full of health and joy for you; may it bring you prosperity and burst at the seams with new experiences that will produce only the best memories – some of them, hopefully, the result of our work.

May 2021 be happier than 2020, simple as that.
